The Abortion and the Utilitarian View Essay on Abortion

The issue of abortion, while never far from the spotlight, has been making headlines again recently as New York passed a full-term abortion law (Tolentino) and Virginia has one similar in the works (North). The Virginia bill has been described as infanticide (BBC) and President Trump has even called for a ban on late-term abortions (Green).

Abortion is not a real issue in the life of Americans right now. "Abortion doesn't affect other people, it affects the fetus. Abortion discriminates the unborn and considers a fetus disposable human life. Abortion kills the most helpless and innocent human beings. "The fetus doesn't have the capacity to care or understand this concept as of yet.

US statistics show that 21% of all viable pregnancies end in abortion and half of all the women arranging an abortion have had at least one abortion in the past. In 2010 over 8% of all women having an abortion had had three or more in the past. This is not just a problem in the US, in the UK (where condoms, hormonal contraception of the woman's choice and emergency 'morning after ...

The temporality of justice in abortion, law, and human rights. Later abortion and its regulation raise a number of questions about justice. The most common justice claim is the recognition that there will always be a need for abortion throughout pregnancy.⁵¹ If women are to survive pregnancy and avoid life-threatening clandestine abortions, international human rights law must require that ...

Helium has been the most popular method of choice for those considering rational suicide. Distressing (or likely to be distressing) methods of suicide, such as hanging, shooting, wrist slashing, household chemicals, tend to be used by those who are not making well-considered decisions in the face of unbearable and unrelievable illness. For our position on...

A person retains the right to have an abortion, established by Roe v. Wade, but the state's compelling interest in protecting the life of an unborn child means that it can ban an abortion of a viable fetus under any circumstances except when the health of the mother is at risk. Also, laws restricting abortion should be evaluated under an undue burden standard rather than a strict scrutiny ...
